UM STUDENT RECEIVES
GUGGENHEIM AWARD

MISSOULA--

A University of Montana graduate student in creative writing has been named a recipient of a coveted 1970 Guggenheim Fellowship Award.

James D. Reed, a native of Jackson, Mich, received the award to continue his studies in poetry. He intends to go to London in September to work on a new book of poetry.

Reed, 29, was the only Montanan among 286 scholars, scientists and artists to receive one of the Guggenheim Fellowship awards which total $2.6 million. The fellowships provide each recipient with a year of study on the basis of demonstrated achievement in the past and strong promise for the future.

A graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing, Reed has written one book of poems entitled "Expressways," which was published by Simon-Shuster Publishing Co. last September.
